COVID Vaccines for Kids Under 6 Won't Have to Meet 50% Efficacy Standard, FDA Official Says

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration's top vaccine official told a congressional committee on Friday that COVID-19 vaccines for kids under 6 will not have to meet the agency's 50% efficacy threshold required to obtain Emergency Use Authorization.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) top vaccine official told a congressional committee on Friday that COVID-19 vaccines for kids under 6 will not have to meet the agency's 50% efficacy threshold required to obtain Emergency Use Authorization (EUA).

The FDA is reviewing data from Moderna's two-shot vaccine for infants and toddlers 6 months to 2 years old, and for children 2 to 6 years old.

The agency is awaiting data on Pfizer and BioNTech's three-dose regimen for children under age 5 after two doses of its pediatric vaccine failed to trigger an immune response in 2-, 3- and 4-year-olds comparable to the response generated in teens and adults.

According to Endpoints News, Dr. Peter Marks, director of the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research at the FDA, told the House Select Subcommittee on the Coronavirus Crisis the agency would not withhold authorization of a pediatric vaccine if it fails to meet the agency's 50% efficacy threshold for blocking symptomatic infections.

COVID-19 vaccines for adolescents, teens and adults had to meet the requirement.

"If these vaccines seem to be mirroring efficacy in adults and just seem to be less effective against Omicron like they are for adults, we will probably still authorize," Marks said.

The FDA on June 30, 2020, issued guidance that in order for an experimental COVID-19 vaccine to obtain EUA, it must "prevent disease or decrease its severity in at least 50 percent of people who are vaccinated."

The guidelines were issued during a briefing with the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions, during which senators sought assurances from former FDA Commissioner Stephen Hahn, Dr. Anthony Fauci and other top health officials that the expedited speed of development of COVID-19 vaccines wouldn't compromise the integrity of the final product.

All previously authorized COVID-19 vaccines and boosters for all age groups were required to meet the FDA's 50% requirement prior to obtaining EUA.

Vinay Prasad, a hematologist-oncologist and associate professor of Epidemiology and Biostatistics at the University of California, San Francisco posted a video responding to the news the FDA would bypass its own standard to authorize pediatric COVID-19 vaccines for kids.

Prasad said:

"Peter Marks from the FDA — he's the defacto regulator-in-chief when it comes to vaccines — is saying that kids' vaccines don't need to hit the target. They don't need to hit the 50% vaccine efficacy against symptomatic SARS-CoV-2 target. That was the target that the FDA themselves came up with in the original pandemic.

"They came up with this target 50% point estimate above, and the lower bound to the 95% confidence interval has to be above 30%. That was their minimum efficacy standard for vaccination. That was the standard they themselves set and that was the standard initial vaccine trials did clear for adults.

"But the pediatric vaccine trials — both the Pfizer and Moderna — appear not to have cleared that bar, and Peter Marks is talking to congressional officials and he is saying that it's okay, we'll probably authorize it anyway."

US FDA drops Kids Vax 50% Efficacy Requirement 👉👉

My Take <https://t.co/sk3jVTW86d>

— Vinay Prasad, MD MPH 🗣️📹 (@VPrasadMDMPH) May 10, 2022

Kids Vaccine Efficacy Requirement is GONE! | Peter Marks ...

Prasad said it was “incredible” that Marks would sign off on a pediatric vaccine if it seems to be mirroring efficacy in adults but is less effective against Omicron.

“We have standards for a reason,” Prasad said. The standard chosen by the FDA was “arbitrary and if anything I’d argue it was on the low side — 50% isn’t as good as what we wanted,” Prasad said.

“Fifty percent is quite low, and if you have a very low vaccine efficacy [...] you can have compensatory behavior that actually leads to a lot more viral spread,” he added.

Prasad said when it comes to kids, it’s “kind of a moot point” because estimates from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention from a few months ago showed 75% of children had seroprevalence — and it’s “probably higher now.”

“Taking a child under the age of 5 who already had and recovered from COVID and trying to make them better off with a vaccine against the original Wuhan ancestral strain — that’s an uphill battle,” Prasad said.

“The absolute upper bound, absolute risk reduction, has got to be super super low because once kids have it and recover from it they generally do pretty well. If they get it again they do even better than the first time.”

Lowering the regulatory standards for vaccine products is not the direction FDA should go, Prasad said. “They need to be upholding the standards they’ve set and raising the standards.”

Prasad raised concerns over what the standard will be moving forward if the agency doesn’t abide by its own minimum requirement.

"At what point will vaccine efficacy arrive at something the agency doesn't accept?" He asked.

Prasad said once the FDA does away with EUA, many preschools will immediately mandate COVID-19 vaccines, and they won't make exceptions for natural immunity or provide any exceptions at all.

"And so what he's talking about is authorizing a vaccine in a setting where you have 75% minimum seroprevalence and the vaccine efficacy could be less than 50%," Prasad said. "How much less?"

Pointing to a Moderna press release stating one arm of its trial showed its pediatric vaccines were only 37% and 23% effective, Prasad asked, "How much lower can it go — 10%? How low before Peter Marks says that's too low?"

Prasad said if the adult vaccine becomes less effective over time, "tell me why that means you should accept the less effective kids' vaccine?"

Prasad explained:

"If a therapy loses efficacy over time, why does that mean the bar to be a therapy is lower? It should mean that we need new therapies. We need a new mRNA construct.

"You need to kind of aim at the thing that's actually out there now and not the original thing from two years ago. Maybe you want to rejigger your process. Try something new but it doesn't mean we keep lowering the bar. This is ridiculous."

Moderna reports concerning efficacy data for pediatric COVID-19 vaccines

As The Defender reported, Moderna on April 28 asked the FDA to approve its COVID-19 mRNA-1273 vaccine for children 6 months to 6 years old, citing different efficacy numbers than it disclosed in March.

The company conducted separate trials for two versions of the vaccine, one for infants and toddlers aged 6 months to 2 years, and one for children 2 to 6 years, and claimed data showed "a robust neutralizing antibody response" and "a favorable safety profile."

It's Time to Follow the Science. Join our Campaign!

Yet, Moderna's KidCOVE study showed the company's COVID-19 vaccine failed to meet the FDA's minimum efficacy requirements for EUA in the 2- to under-6 age group, and barely surpassed the agency's 50% efficacy requirement in the 6-month to 2-year age group — even after the vaccine maker changed its analysis of the study to meet the threshold.

Moderna also did not follow trial participants beyond 28 days, so vaccine effectiveness after that time is unknown. Data from New York state show vaccine effectiveness for the 5-to-11 age group plummets within seven weeks to 12%.

"Here, we're looking only at the first four weeks," Dr. Madhava Setty told The Defender. "Although data from New York were in a different age group using a different mRNA vaccine, the effectiveness was remarkably similar after four weeks. Why wouldn't we expect that the same thing is going to happen?"

The House Select Subcommittee on Coronavirus Crisis on April 26 asked the FDA for a status update on COVID-19 vaccines for children under 5.

The agency said it was considering holding off on reviewing Moderna's request to authorize its COVID-19 vaccine for children under 5 until it has data from Pfizer and BioNTech on their vaccine for children, pushing the earliest possible authorization of a vaccine from May to June.

When asked on Friday whether the FDA's vaccine advisors would slow-roll Moderna's applications and wait to review Pfizer's and Moderna's applications together, Marks said the meetings set for next month could move up if necessary.

"Obviously if we get through reviews faster, then we will send them to committees sooner," Marks said.

According to Rep. Jim Clyburn's (D-S.C.) account of the meeting, Marks said the FDA's vaccine advisory committee has reserved earlier dates, enabling the agency to potentially "move dates up even by a week for any of these reviews."

"At the end of the day, we want people to have confidence in getting vaccinated," Marks said. "We need to get more kids vaccinated, not just in the younger than 5 age range, but also older than 5."

All the trial data is completely meaningless because they're based on fraudulent tests that are designed to detect genetic fragments from an alleged virus that's never been isolated, purified, and sequenced anywhere in the world, or ever proven to exist. Since there's no virus, all the injections are 0% benefit and 100% risk, which, as can be gleaned from the immense body of evidence from around the world, is both massive and horrifying, and significantly under-reported, with still-unknown long term health consequences, especially on fertility and the development of children.

They aren't trying to - and the injections aren't designed to - protect anyone from anything; they are trying to - and the injection are designed to - maim and murder untold numbers of people (probably until they reach their desired population of around 500,000) and sterilize and enslave the survivors.

There was never a pandemic; it was/is simply a global transnational ruling class conspiracy and genocidal class war involving nearly every single government on Earth (and the leader who resisted were already assassinated or controlled). All the rest is propaganda.

One would have a hard time proving this statement false.

Yet. the mind control has happened. I am stunned daily by the hypnotic trance and psch

...the same behavior has happened to me several times by my parents when they try to manipulate so many have fallen for. I see them while they drive their cars fully masked, alone. I meet them in grocery stores, libraries, parks as they tell me they have tinnitus and don't know why. When I say that is a common side effect from the jabs, they literally laugh and say "nonsense". Those in power know how stupid and careless many humans are and one sure way to be able to manipulate someone is to lie to them and keep them in the dark. Thank goodness for the many that are not concerned with being popular but human beings.

Parents are human beings and unfortunately, they care about what other people think and don't trust their instincts enough to question a few things, Being a parent is not for the faint of heart. My heart cries for the parents of today.

No they aren't. The exact same can be said of parents who refuse vaccines – and it is being said as some children have been medically kidnapped. There's far too much false guilt flying around these days.

What these parents are actually doing is believing lies. Every single person ever born has believed some lies, somewhere, sometime. Some believe only a few, many believe a lot, but they are still believing lies.

Believing lies doesn't make you guilty of anything, it just makes you deceived. It is sad, it is dangerous, it is horrifying, it is deadly. People act on those lies they believe, and it does not go well for them. Ultimately, deception destroys.

The good news is that a person can educate themselves out of the deceptions they believe. The bad news is that it takes time and effort and it isn't easy at first. The final good news is that it actually does get easier over time.

4 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

GetCheckedNow → Molly Malone • 3 days ago • edited

On one level, I agree with you that it shouldn't be considered "abuse" , and that it's parents believing lies.

On the other hand, why on earth would someone inject an experimental ANYthing into a young, developing child until enough time has passed to see any potential consequences? And, on top of that, for a "disease" which from the outset was shown rarely affected children, or only in a mild way.

Minimally, it is Gross Negligence!

It's bad enough re regular childhood vaccines, but at least they have many years of data & can see many, many kids who "appear" fine after getting all their shots (tho that is changing now that kids get /2 shots in just a few short years!).

In other words, the federal death agency in collusion with poison cartel corporations can't wait to make more $$ off the suffering, disabilities, cancers, and deaths off of children. Because depopulation and control by overlords sells big $$$. Why natural immunity as our bodies as our pharmacies as created by God are far superior than Pharmakeia immunity. For those Parents who are considering giving their kids these shots, please protect your kids and don't put this depopulation weapon in their bodies or you will be sorry. There are plenty of parents who regret buying into the Covid narrative, as their kids are either disabled or dead. For those stupid enough to buy into the fakestream media and propaganda, you are under willful ignorance and mass formation psychosis. You want this insanity to end, mass noncompliance is necessary!

isn't it obvious, for long time already, that it is about something totally different than covid19, for the last 2.5 YEARS BY NOW??? Since we are NOT TALKING ABOUT 'vaccines' (alone because of the obvious side effects exploding after that 'therapy' already in adults!!), but in FACT about GENE MODIFICATION TREATMENTS, isn't it slowly obvious to everyone it is about ERASING THE HUMAN GENOME AS WE KNOW IT???? Once all HUMANS are gone, and only the PATENTED entities are left, there is no FUTURE ON THIS PLANET FOR HUMANS of course any more! Meanwhile, Vermont is one of the highest, if not the highest vaccinated state in the U.S., and they have the highest surge in COVID cases and hospitalizations...., mostly among the vaccinated.

And then there is this data out of the UK.

Age Group -----Risk/benefit

10-14-----1,600.8/1

<https://stevekirsch.substac...>

It's all risk! 1.6k risk for young children!

8 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

Kim from Brooklyn → Sentinel • 4 days ago

I can't imagine Vermont having the largest cases. The state has approximately 650,000 residents. The reason their cases are high is because the percentage of actual bodies is low. Where I live in a small suburb in NY State, there are 350,000 residents. 90,000 are Jewish. 75,000 white middle class, 50,000 illegal immigrants and the rest mixed. We all get along with one another and live among one another the best we can without getting in each others way too much.

But Vermont is a state where there are miles of land, rivers, farms and pockets of areas that have been hit with the opioid crises and homelessness. These areas can come out smelling clean because it is a low populated state. So of course the cases are going to be the highest comparatively.

Vaccines have "virus" in them. These do not.

They have spike protein that attaches to the ACE receptors changing the genetic coding for the spike with the many, many variants.

The jab is not a vaccine. It is a genetic experiment that is making many very, very , did I say, very? rich.

Children's immune system is perfect and capable of fighting off and building natural immunity to coronavirus, which in lay terms is, the common cold.

They claim they will never have a cure for the common cold so why do they think we will buy the fact that now suddenly, they do? Is it the common cold that kills(ed) so many beginning March 2020 to now??If they didn't know what the "virus" was - all the secrets and deleted files from 2020 to now: If they didn't know what the virus was - all the secrets and deleted files from Wuhan. Who would think it is ok that all those files were deleted and just be like - oh, no problem but we do have a vaccine in the wings for this.

The brain twisting began March 2020 when they used fear and Fauci to get the message out that our lives are going to change in many ways soon and we want first dibs on the financial end. If they ever wanted people to distrust bigpharma they sure proved their point.

And isn't it a crime to continue to use a drug that is causing deaths and injuries? And to give it to recipients that don't even need it? That is another big crime, isn't it? It's like going to the mechanic for an oil change and them telling you you need new tires, brakes and a transmission. Where is the sense in that? The car is only 2 months old!!!!

When those same subjects are the very, very b>least likely to suffer from any such virus??

If I haven't read it wrong then isn't this total malfeasance of a massive proportion?

Isn't this a blatant crime?

Isn't this flagrant disregard of all that's just, humane and sensible?

If I have it right then shouldn't the FDA and all other complicit organisations and offices be immediately arrested and shut down?

What is going on?

This is way beyond Kafkaesque now, way beyond Orwell, this is incredible...

EUA ? It begs the question: where is the demonstrable Emergency for these children? When no such emergency can even be demonstrated for adults?

And EUA? Isn't the situation currently such that Big Pharma having estimated it has bled the globe right now for about as much as it can with these vaxes now is the time to release 'pills and potions' that it wouldn't release before for fear of obviating EUA rules requiring there be no alternative?

Like haven't I heard Big Pharma itself has released 'an alternative' ?

If the government knows it is giving placebos in higher numbers in the younger children then that action must lower efficacy percentage. Why give more placebo? In order to deceive the public and parents into a false sense of security in the vaccines. If too many youngsters become ill after vaccination it will be more obvious to parents that something is terribly wrong. The "efficacy" can be raised over time, i.e., less placebo, more concoction inoculated, as people become complacent once again. These entities have planned this tragedy, not us... we are groping along the way in the dark, trying to find the truth. Pray to our Creator for guidance.

So far, all of the drugs developed against COVID-19 have been disastrous in one way or another. Remdesivir, which to this day is the primary COVID drug approved for use in U.S. hospitals, routinely causes severe organ damage and, often, death. Despite that, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved remdesivir for in-hospital and outpatient use in children as young as 1 month old
